RETAIL CREDIT BUREAU WILL START MAY 18

The new Retail Credit Bureau of Adams County will begin functioning on May 18. It was decided at a meeting Friday night at the fire engine house, with William Musser, temporary president, presiding. Twelve members attended.

Ernest Dulaney, manager of the credit bureau, said there were now 91 members. Accounts have been received from more than half this number, and file cards for credit reference are being made. The membership includes a large number of retailers from nearly all sections of the county, he said.

Miss Mary Froelich, manager of the York credit bureau, outlined the operations of this organization, started in the early '20s, she said.

"Like A Traffic Signal" "The credit bureau," she said, "is like a traffic signal. It provides the stop, go and caution signals for retailers in dealing with customers making application for credit. It is a benefit both to the retailer and to the customer who maintains a good credit rating."

Miss Froelich said there were approximately 1,700 credit bureaus in the United States, and approximately 75 in Pennsylvania. Membership of the Retail Credit Bureau of Adams County in the state and national bureaus can be obtained after the bureau here has been in satisfactory operation for six months, she said, providing access to credit ratings from any place in the United States which has a credit bureau.

"A credit record is like a shadow. It follows you wherever you go," she said. "The credit bureau is insurance on your book accounts." She warned county retailers, however, not to "expect too much" of the local bureau immediately. "It takes time to grow," she said.

Describing the operations of the York Bureau, Miss Froelich said records were kept of all credit dealings as reported by members; records of marriages, births, deaths and divorces; accidents, arrests, changes of address, court records, bankruptcy notices, and records of chattel mortgages, conditional sales contracts, mortgages, judgments, lawsuits and repossessions.

A meeting of the board of directors will be held at the fire engine house May 4, to which all members of the credit bureau are invited, Mr. Musser said.

NURSE MADE 169 VISITS 3 MONTHS

The Gettysburg Civic nurse made 169 home visits during January, February and March. It was announced at a meeting of the Civic Nursing Association Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the YWCA. Mrs. Ralph R. Gresh, president, presided.

Reports were read by the secretary, Mrs. Walter H. Danforth, and the treasurer, Miss Elizabeth Evans. Mrs. Ada Tuckey, Barlow St., has been appointed temporary civic nurse during the illness of the regular nurse, Mrs. William F. Holtzworth, who is recovering from an operation. Announcement was made that the new leaflets explaining the work of the civic nurse in the community had been distributed by the various committees to the churches and doctors' offices throughout the town. After a discussion it was voted that the civic nurse may not go into a convalescent home to care for any patient unless specifically directed to do so by the physician.

A letter was read from Atty. Richard A. Brown, asking the nursing association to refer any indigent person or persons within the county who may be in need of legal services to a committee appointed by the Adams County Bar Association. The purpose of the plan is to see that everyone in the county will have legal services if needed. Atty. S. M. Raffensperger is chairman on legal aid for the Bar Association.

G. C. MURPHY CO. WILL OPEN NEW STORE BY NOV. 1

The G. C. Murphy Co. expects to open its new store on Baltimore St. by November 1. C. O. Schweizer, local manager, said today.

Employees of I. Reindollar and Son Inc., York, general contractors, have removed the second and third floors of the old building and demolished the two buildings south of the Murphy store, and work is progressing on the new building on the sites formerly occupied by the Peoples Drug Store and Martin's Shoe Store.

"The Reindollar firm is making rapid progress, with every indication of completing the construction work and renovation late in October," Mr. Schweizer said.

Five Front Entrances Construction work south of the present store will add 33 feet in frontage and a depth of 142 feet, he said. Like the older building now occupied by the Murphy store, when completed it will be one story and basement.

Total frontage will be 93 feet, with five entrances on Baltimore St. and an entrance at the rear convenient to the Murphy Co. parking lot.

"The very latest in store fixtures, fluorescent lighting and scientific air conditioning will provide every comfort for the shopping public," Mr. Schweizer said. "Construction will not only give a 'new look' to this section of Gettysburg, but will provide a modern retail establishment."

Another 100 Allied Prisoners Freed Today As Exchange Goes On; 'Bonus' Group Of Americans

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Another 100 Allied prisoners—including a bonus number of Americans, British and Turks—were freed today as the Communists kept their promise to continue the exchange of sick and wounded captives beyond the original limit.

The Reds said they would free 13 more Americans and 71 disabled South Koreans tomorrow as truce negotiators return to the neutral zone for the first full dress armistice talks since last Oct. 8. Seventeen Americans, four British, four Turks and 75 South Koreans came back today, bringing the total to the 600 the Reds said they would exchange in six days. But of the total:

BARTLETT WILL TALK ON SAFETY

Chief of Police Jack Bartlett will give details on safe operation of bicycles at the "safety night" program for bicycle owners to be held Monday evening, starting at 6:30 o'clock at the Hotel Gettysburg Annex.

During the program members of the local Rotary Club and the Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity will affix, free of charge, silver and red reflecting "Lite-A-Bike" strips to all bicycles brought to the annex.

There are approximately 500 bicycles in use in the area, and Dr. Richard Newsham, head of the Rotary committee for the program, said he hopes that more than half of the bicycles will be brought to the annex to have the luminous strips affixed.

The strips reflect the lights of automobiles and make the bicycles more visible to motorists at night, in addition to being decorative during the day.

The campaign to affix the strips to all bicycles in the area is being carried on as a safety program by the Rotary and fraternity to cut down the danger of collisions between cars and bicycles at night.

Directors Report Hospital Patient Increase From Two Areas; More Contributions

76 PROPERTIES IN COUNTY SOLD DURING MARCH

Seventy-six Adams County properties were sold for $474,861 during March, according to the monthly report made by the county's chief assessor, William G. Weaver, to the State Tax Equalization Board.

The number is ten more than the 66 recorded in February, which were sold for $355,443. There were 14 farms sold in March, at a total value of $111,846, as compared to ten farms sold for $110,888 in February.

During the past month 33 of the properties sold were listed as lots, 25 as houses, 14 as farms, three as timberlots and one as an inn, as compared to 42 lots, ten farms, 13 houses and one timber lot in February.

Over $5,000 In Taxes

Average value of the properties sold in March was $6,248 as compared to $5,485.50 in the preceding month. Assessed valuation of the properties sold in March is listed as $67,724, but that amount covers only those previously assessed. Twenty-nine properties had previously been part of larger holdings and thus had no separate assessment. Nine of the properties sold during March and listed as farms were assessed at $18,256 while five were smaller units of larger properties and had not been previously assessed. The transfer of properties during February enriched the state treasury by $,724.86 in tax paid on the deeds and provided $462.40 in revenue to the federal government on its deed tax.

The location of properties sold included: Arendtsville, one; Bendersville, two; Biglerville, one; Butler Twp., two; Conewago Twp., three; Cumberland Twp., seven; East Berlin, one; Franklin Twp., nine; Germany Twp., two; Gettysburg, seven; Hamilton Twp., two; Hamiltonban Twp., five; Highland Twp., one; Huntingtown Twp., one; Littlestown, three; McSherrystown, three; Mt. Joy Twp., one; Mt. Pleasant Twp., three; New Oxford, one; Oxford Twp., one; Straban Twp., four; Reading Twp., one; Tyrone Twp., two; Union Twp., eight. One property is listed as Abbotstown R. D., without a township location given.

YOUNG BRIDE IS CRITICAL

A 19-year-old Littlestown bride was in a critical condition at the Warner hospital today from an injury suffered in an accident a month ago at Hanover.

Mrs. Mary Kress, wife of Richard Kress, 27 Lombard St., Littlestown, was injured, apparently slightly, in an auto accident in Hanover about a month ago. She complained of a head injury at the time, but no fracture was shown by X-rays taken at the hospital there after the crash.

Since then she complained of headaches and inability to focus her eyes. Friday she became unconscious while seated at the dinner table.

She was rushed to the Warner hospital by Dr. Philip Zulick. Physicians feared that a brain hemorrhage may have occurred, resulting from the "bump" on the head in the accident.

A brain specialist was called from Harrisburg to open the skull. No hemorrhage was found, but there was apparently a swelling of the tissues of the brain, physicians said. She remains unconscious. Physicians describe her condition as "critical." It is now only a question of "waiting to see what will develop," they said.

The Hanover-Gettysburg Bridge Club met Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Edward Hilbert in Hanover.

New Atomic Explosion Jars Buildings 75 Miles Away

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—A nuclear blast, involving large-scale maneuvers by Army troops from all over the nation, flared brilliantly over the Nevada desert at 4:30 a. m. today.

Seventeen Congressional observers were treated to what appeared one of the most powerful shots of the spring series, of which today's was the seventh.

The flash, as observed in this resort city 75 miles from the Atomic Energy Commission's Yucca Flat proving ground, seemed fully as bright as last Saturday's, which was the most spectacular of the series.

It filled the pre-dawn sky with a blinding golden glow, lingering momentarily before fading. Less than a minute later the mushroom cloud shot upward and soon ice crystals turned its top a dazzling white.

Some seven minutes later the shock wave hit here, strong enough to jar buildings, but not nearly as strong as the shock from a previous air-drop blast that broke a downtown market window.

The flash was seen as far away as San Francisco, as a thin glow on the eastern horizon, although it was not visible in Los Angeles, where there was a low overcast.

President John A. Hauser introduced a new note in the directors meeting of the Annie M. Warner Hospital, Friday evening, when he called on directors representing nearly all sections of the county to give a report of comments in their areas concerning the hospital.

The reports were uniformly good. Directors from New Oxford and Littlestown reported an increasing number of patients coming to the Warner Hospital and a vastly improved sentiment favorable to the hospital.

President Hauser summed up the self-examination with the comment to Executive Director Walter R. Doud that he and the members of his staff could accept the reports as high commendation of their services.

Further evidence of the good will enjoyed by the hospital throughout the county was contained in the April 23 report of the Hospital's letter campaign which revealed that 6,198 letters brought 3,315 contributions aggregating $6,226.85 whereas for the same period last year 6,784 letters yielded 2,904 responses for a total of $6,020.00.

2300 PRISONERS DIED OF WOUNDS AND EXHAUSTION

FREEDOM VILLAGE, Korea (AP)—Two American soldiers who endured more than two years of misery as prisoners of the Communists told today how more than 2,300 comrades died of exhaustion, hunger and wounds in two North Korean stockades.

M. Sgt. Gilbert Christie, 42, of Montezuma, Ind., said "much over 50 per cent" of 3,000 prisoners in his camp died during the winter of 1950-51.

Cpl. John L. Watters Jr. of Beckley, W. Va., said 800 out of 1,500 United Nations captives died in Camp No. 5 at Pyoktong between April 1, 1951, and August, 1952.

Most of the 17 Americans, four British and four Turks released by the Reds today looked fairly strong. A few walked haltingly. One Yank saw the sign "Freedom Village" here and hurled his crutches away in joy.

Cpl. John King, 29, of Orlando, Fla., said he was captured April 25, 1951, but did not get into a prison camp until December, 1951.

He said it was two months before he received any medical treatment. He said he had been hit in the back, hip and stomach by shrapnel.

"All my operations were done by guesswork," he said. "They felt me with their fingers and if it sounded all right they said, 'we will cut here.'"

Airman 2-C William R. Hilyard of Columbus, Ind., a B26 gunner, one of three airmen returned by the Reds, stayed nine months in the camp hospital at Pyoktong.

Asked if the Communists accused him of germ warfare, he replied: "I was knocked down before that fictitious stuff started."

He said the men in the camp think the germ warfare charges "silly." Pfc. Thomas Petty of Fairmont, W. Va., told of a heroic second lieutenant who stuck with him when he was wounded on Jackson Heights.

Says Some U.S. Prisoners Were Red Informers

By STANLEY CARTER

TOKYO (AP)—An American soldier freed Tuesday after almost two years in Communist prison camps said today some U. S. prisoners turned informer and "passed along to the Communists information on what other prisoners were talking about or planning."

"I guess some of them believed the Communist line. Some of them did it for the cigarettes . . . They didn't care about their buddies," said Sgt. Orville R. Mullins of Covington, Ky.

He gave no names and did not say how many prisoners had turned informer.

"You had to watch your step. You had to be careful who you talked to and pick your friends," he added.

Mullins gave newsmen the first accounts of death marches across frozen North Korean highways in an interview earlier this week.

Russians In Korea
And today, resting in an Army hospital here, he recalled again the bitter months as a prisoner.

He said there were lots of Russians in North Korea—all riding in jeeps or other vehicles while the Chinese walked—and all dressed in snappy uniforms with epaulettes and shiny boots.

On the long march north, Mullins said, the column of prisoners passed two jeeps of Russians sitting beside the road drinking. "They tried to get out North Korean guards to line us up and shoot us," he said.

The Kentucky sergeant said all prisoners in his camp were forced to attend indoctrination lectures during which the Communists would accuse the United States of using germ warfare.

Mullins said the Chinese "would get pretty mad" when he answered: "We don't have to use germ warfare. All we've got to do is drop another A-bomb. That would stir up more germs than any germ bombs."

SOVIET UNION WILL DISCUSS PROBLEMS BUT HIT IKE SPEECH

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union agreed today to business-like discussions with the West on the great controversies troubling peace but flatly rejected what appeared to be some conditions laid down by President Eisenhower.

The Russian agreement was outlined in a statement carried across the entire front pages of Moscow's principal newspapers—Pravda, the organ of the Soviet Communist party's Central Committee, and Izvestia, the organ of the Supreme Soviet.

The Soviet government will welcome any step of the American government or any other government if it is directed at the friendly settlement of difficult questions," the statement said.

Official Statement
"This is evidence," it continued, "of the readiness of the Soviet side for serious business-like discussions of outstanding problems."

The statement added that the Russians would participate in direct conversations and, when necessary, in negotiations through the United Nations.

Although it was unsigned and entitled solely "On the Address of President Eisenhower," it seemed clear from the wording that it was correct to call the article a statement by the leadership of the Soviet Union.

Answer To Speech
It was clearly and definitely an answer to Eisenhower's April 14 speech.

In that address, the President challenged the new Soviet government to prove its peace overtures by agreeing to global disarmament and taking concrete steps to end the tensions that threaten World War III.

Eisenhower said the first step toward peace must be the establishment of an honorable armistice in Korea, followed by political discussions leading to free elections in a United Korea. He also called for an end to Red aggression in Indochina and Malaya, and Austrian peace treaty, unification of Germany and independence for the East European satellites of Russia.

See War Threat
The Soviet statement sharply attacked some things Eisenhower said and many things that U. S. Secretary of State Dulles has said since the President made his appeal in speaking before the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

Referring directly to Eisenhower's remarks, the Soviet statement accused him of trying to threaten the USSR with atomic war.

Eisenhower said the alternatives to true peace endeavors were: At worst "atomic war," at best, "a life of perpetual fear and tension."

"THE WANDERING MINSTREL"

Just why does he keep wandering . . . around from town to town . . . and wear a grin that helps us all . . . to smile instead of frown . . . I've wondered often, so many times . . . and tried so hard to find . . . what made this minstrel play so well . . . what made his "way so kind . . . he must have been through everything . . . by that I mean of course . . . a thing we call experience . . . with kindness and with force . . . his music brings back memories . . . of when I was a kid . . . and when he plays I live again . . . the things that I once did . . . but deep inside his heart it seems . . . he's crying silently recalling times forever gone . . . in the days of used-to-be.

Littlestown High Students Score With Operetta Friday

The Junior Class and Senior High chorus of the Littlestown High School presented the operetta "Up On Old Smokey" on Friday evening, before a large and appreciative audience in the high school auditorium. The annual operetta was under the direction of Miss LeOra L. Held and Mrs. Joan C. Wilt, of the faculty. The characters ably portrayed their parts and the story and music was greatly enjoyed.

Cindy, portrayed by Dorothy Jones, a young school teacher of Windy Ridge, in the southern Appalachians, lights a candle every night, awaiting the return of her fiancé, William, played by William Benner, whom she sent to the city two years ago to study singing. She rejects the love of Sam, who is Dean Sell, and who lives in the neighborhood cabin. Her grandpapa, played by James Hollinger, seems lazy, but in reality has a finger in every pie, and has secretly written to William, urging him to come back, guessing that William's return will result in Cindy's awakening to her love for Sam, instead.

The church choir, directed by Cindy, has met at Grandpapa's cabin for a rehearsal and a welcome to the new minister, when William, now a successful singer, returns to Windy Ridge with his entertainment troupe. True mountain hospitality is extended to the visitors, and an evening of singing and other entertainment follows, with the professional troupe participating in informal "talent show" style. For the show Grandpapa and Bill are masters of ceremonies and the entertainment includes vocal solo by Suzanne Harmer; vocal trio, Patti Long, Marilyn Spangler and Elizabeth Anne Crouse; Charleston exhibition, Jean Hull and Jeanne Blocher, and vocal solo by Joan Koonitz.

The group witnessed the disappointment of Sue Ellen, portrayed by Darla Lemon, whose plans for elopement with Frankie, played by Terry Brown, member of a feuding family, are broken up by her father, Stephen Palkinburg. Her desire to leave the mountains for life in the city is gratified by William's decision to include her in his troupe. Cindy, aware of the change in William realizes that her love for him was only a shadow. Blowing out her candle, she wears a flower for Sam and all ends happily.

Many In Cast
Other characters in the cast were Patti Long, Shirley Jones, Suzanne Harmer, Joan Koonitz and Jean Hull. The mountain folk were the following: Senior High Chorus members: Marilyn Spangler, Elizabeth Anne Crouse, Joan Winthrope, Louise Kerns, Alvina Groff, Barbara Ripka, Mary Lou King, Donna Simpson, Lou Eta Miller, Dawn Pettijohn, Nadine Stites and Barbara Beck. William Simons, who was to appear in the operetta as a member of the cast, and also on the talent show, was unable to be present, due to illness. His character part was portrayed by Patti Long.

Musical numbers all based on mountain folk songs included "Way Up On Old Smokey," ensemble; "Billy Boy," Sam and ensemble; "Poor Wayfaring Stranger," choir off stage; "Cruel Love," Sue Ellen and Frankie; "Old Blue," Grandpapa, Mrs. Johnson and Sam; "The True Lover's Farewell," Cindy; "Lonesome Valley," choir, off stage; "Skip to My Lou," ensemble; second act selections were "Frog Went A-Courtin'," solo and duet, ad-lib, ensemble; "She'll Be Comin' Round the Mountain," entertainment troupe, off stage, trio and ensemble; "My True Lover's Greeting," William; "Sourwood Mountain," ensemble; third act numbers were "Turkey in the Straw," a square dance; "Down in the Valley," Sue Ellen, Frankie and ensemble; "Come, All Ye Fair and Tender Ladies," Sue Ellen and girls; "The Bear Chase," Sam, Grandpapa and men; "I Know My Love," Sam and Cindy; "Cindy," ensemble.

Funeral services for William E. Todd, 71, South Queen St., Littlestown, who died Thursday at 3:15 a.m. in the Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, where he had been a patient for three weeks, were held with brief rites at 8:30 a'clock this morning at Little's Funeral Home, Littlestown, followed with requiem mass at 9 o'clock in St. Aloysius Catholic Church, Littlestown. The pastor, the Rev. Fr. Edward J. Shanahan, officiated. Interment was at Conewago Chapel Cemetery, near McSherrystown. Serving as pallbearers were nephews of the deceased, Francis Smith, Henry F. Storm, John P. Todd, Donald Lawrence, Donald Todd and Francis Weaver.

BODY OF GIRL FOUND IN BAG

MAYS LANDING, N. J. (AP)—The body of a 24-year old Philadelphia girl, missing since April 9, has been found wedged into a duffel bag which was dumped into a shallow creek here. A silk stocking was twisted about her neck.

The girl was identified last night as Gloria Bozzelli of (4812 Somerdale St.) Philadelphia.

A pathologist from Philadelphia was called into perform an autopsy to determine the cause of death. The olive-drab duffel bag with its gruesome contents was discovered about noon yesterday in the cold waters of Iron Ore Creek by Roy Sheerer of Mays Landing and section protection fire warden John Conover of Elwood.

State Police said "lack of decomposition" of the body led to the belief that it had not been in the water long.

In Philadelphia, the girl's father, Peter, later identified as his daughter's a 1946 class ring from South Philadelphia Boys high school which was found on the body.

Complain Crocodiles Fast Disappearing

SYDNEY (AP)—Professional crocodile shooters may desert Australia's Northern Territory after this year. Shooters and hide agents say that crocodiles are becoming scarcer in all rivers within reasonable distance of Darwin.

Only four shooters are going this year, although the price of hides has risen by 20 per cent. Shooters say there are still plenty of crocodiles in outbreak rivers, but not in numbers large enough to cover the heavy expenses of hunting.

The number of crocodiles has been steadily decreasing since before the war, but at a faster rate since the war. They take a long time to grow.

SEE VICTORY FOR SUBMERGED LANDS BILL; RECORD SPEECH

WASHINGTON (AP)—Backers today predicted victory without compromise for a bill to establish state ownership of offshore submerged lands—a bill against which Sen. Morse (Ind-Or.) talked longer than around the clock for a Senate record.

It was far and away the longest speech in the current debate, starting at 11:40 a. m. yesterday and going deep into today's early hours. It beat at least one other effort for which a record was claimed—a 15 hour, 35 minute marathon by the late Sen. Huey P. Long, Louisiana Democrat, in 1935.

But the proponents of state ownership had renewed support from President Eisenhower and one highly placed supporter of the measure said in an interview "there will be no compromise on this bill."

Calls For Quick Action
He predicted the long-talking opposition will be forced into submission next week.

Before the President spoke yesterday, Senate Republican leader Taft of Ohio said he was exploring the possibility of modifications in the legislation on which both sides could agree.

The President called for prompt passage of the bill and said he was "deeply concerned" over the delay of his legislative program caused by prolonged Senate debate entering its 18th day today.

Morse Picks Flaws
On the merits of the submerged lands bill, Morse said it was so worded as possibly to prevent the building of dams by the federal government on lands under navigable streams.

He noted that the bill prohibits "use" of such lands by the federal government.

Morse also criticized the indefinite provisions of the bill in defining state boundaries. He said the Senate should accept the recommendation of Atty. Gen. Brownell that the boundaries be fixed by a map.

Threat To Fishermen
He declared also that recognition of states' boundaries beyond the territorial limit of three miles usually asserted by the federal government invites reprisals from other nations and constitutes a threat to U. S. fishermen. Texas and Florida claim up to 10 1/2 miles.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.), an opponent of the bill, said in an interview a final vote probably would come by next Thursday or Friday. All-night sessions are planned next week if the debate goes on.

OFFICIAL MOURNING

Flags again, full staff and mast. Mark official mourning past. Thirty days for formal grief—Long to some, to loved ones brief. Up the flags, let bugles blow. Good Queen Mary wished it so.

Better far than pomp's display Is the unofficial way. Mourning lasting down the years Shown by unofficial tears. But the grieving will go on After thirty days are gone.

Well it is and very wise Soon should end official sighs. After those we've loved have gone Must the cares of life go on. Up the flags, let bugles blow. Good Queen Mary wished it so.

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE CRITICS

I am always interested in the criticisms of a person, book or play. They are so often wrong! I recall a play that no critic would praise, and no manager would accept. So the author put it on herself — and it had one of the longest runs of any in New York up to that time! It was "Able's Irish Rose."

It has been said that critics can make or break a book or a play. It does not always happen that way. Too many critics think they have to tear a thing to pieces instead of pointing out the good points, which often prove to be more numerous than the bad points. And then kindness often works a miracle!

The late beloved William (Billy) Lyon Phelps was strong on praising a book or play. He got joy out of the success of others. He once even praised a book that severely criticised himself in it! Another critic, reviewer and author, W. Robertson Nicoll, long the famous editor of The British Weekly, wrote in one of his books that he never believed in anything but praise. If a thing wasn't worth that it wasn't worth mentioning at all. And so he encouraged scores of young people on the path to fame and just recognition.

I once read of a famous author who had done fine things in her earlier career, but one of her last books was severely and unjustly criticized. The author, who was then dying of cancer, had time to read it. Imagine what a good word would have meant to such a one at that time! Kindness travels far. Had it not been for the generous and appreciative efforts of W. D. Howells, Hamlin Garland and Joseph Conrad, the early work of Stephen Crane might never have been recognized as that of a genius. Morgan Robertson, who died in 1915, was a thrilling writer of sea stories. One time he submitted a story to an editor, who scanned it carelessly, then went to his book shelf, pulled out a book, and said: "Here is an author who knows how to write sea stories." Morgan looked at the book and noted that it was one of his own!

WASHINGTON (AP)— A federal grand jury Friday indicted Joe Adonis, once a bigtime New Jersey gambler, on two charges of perjury before the Senate Crime Committee in 1950.

'LOT OF BALONEY' SAYS FENTON OF POWER CLAIMS

By FRANK TRAGLE

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Fenton (R-Pa.) describes as "a lot of baloney" arguments that Pacific Northwest power development is helping the whole nation.

What it's doing, he said at a House Appropriations Subcommittee hearing, is causing unemployment in the hard coal regions of Pennsylvania.

Fenton, a veteran congressman from Mahanoy City, expressed his views during testimony of Kirby Billingsley, Chelan County, Wash., public utility district commissioner who made a plea for funds for the Bonneville Power Administration.

Billingsley said Westerners "are sick and tired of having Easterners say . . . that their tax moneys are being spent to develop these Western power projects."

"Sick And Tired"
Billingsley's argument was that the projects pay off at 2½ per cent interest; in new taxable wealth which they create, and "in winning war, saving the lives of American boys and preserving the freedom of this nation."

He urged the subcommittee, of which Fenton is a member, not to do anything "to disrupt a program which is benefiting the whole nation."

He Exploded
This was too much for Fenton. He exploded.

"I have been so sick and tired of listening to that statement that the whole country is benefiting by it that it is not even funny. Certainly other parts of the country helped too, and as far as the veteran is concerned the little area I come from has paid plenty as far as servicemen are concerned . . ."

"You have just admitted here that private industry is going out there and getting the benefit of these low power rates. Bonneville power is coming in the back door instead of the front . . ."

Fenton said the Bonneville area is granting 10-to-10-year contracts at low preference rates, and added:

Three Mines Closed
"In other words, they are giving cheap electrical energy to industries that are leaving the East and going out there."

One result, he said, has been the closing of three coal mines in his district and loss of work for 2,900 men.

"Those people," he said, "are going on relief and the taxpayer has to bear that burden."

"This government has absolutely turned its back on the Eastern section, particularly the anthracite coal area . . ."

"You say that the Easterners should not have anything to say about it. We are paying plenty. I am just about sick and tired of it too . . ."

"I, too, am in sympathy with irrigation but I think power is getting too powerful throughout the country . . . it is taking our industry away from us."

WOULD SHIFT AID FROM WEST EUROPE TO EAST

WASHINGTON (AP)—A team of 55 American businessmen as recommended the Eisenhower administration sharply reduce economic assistance to Western Europe but increase it to Communist-threatened Far East countries.

Responsible government officials also said the business leaders have urged the State Department be given complete control over all foreign aid programs and that the existing Mutual Security Agency be abolished.

These views have been given to MSA Director Harold Stassen as part of a 4,000-word confidential report following an on-the-spot survey of foreign aid operations in 14 countries.

Clarence Francis, chairman of the board of General Foods Corp., was the task force director of the business group which undertook the survey at Stassen's request.

The report concludes that American grant aid has accomplished its purpose of bettering economic conditions in Europe. A substantial outback is recommended for nearly all countries, except West Berlin and divided Austria.

Ike Directive On Sick Leave Issued

WASHINGTON (AP)—Unless they can show clearly they have it coming, President Eisenhower has ordered all government workers appointed by him not to accept cash for unused vacation and sick leave.

This directive stands until Congress has had a chance to consider changing the law governing such leaves, the President told agency heads Thursday.

Presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty said the order stemmed from acceptance of more than $700,000 cash for earned but unused leave by officials of the Truman administration when they left office.

Fiscel Pitches No-Hitter As GHS Blanks Greyhounds 14-0; One Assist In Game

Marlin "Skip" Fiscel, ace Gettysburg High School right-hander, turned in a brilliant no-hit no-run performance here Friday afternoon as the Warriors crushed Shippensburg 14-0 in a South Penn League game.

Fiscel turned back 14 batters via the strikeout route. The only runners to reach base were Rosenberry, who walked in the second inning and Spitko who walked in the sixth. Both runners reached second base on steals but that is as far as they could go. Spitko was doubled off base when Rohrbaugh took Weaver's fly and threw quickly to Danny Roth.

So effective was the local moundman only one ball was hit to the outfield, Weaver's fly. Five pop flies went to the infield. Don Dentler, first baseman, had but one putout, that on Silt's pop-up in the third. Another oddity was that the lone assist in the game was Rohrbaugh's toss to Roth for a double-play.

Coach Howard Shoemaker's clan tallied in the second inning when Dentler walked, and scored via an out and wild pitch.

The Warriors pushed over six runs in the third on singles by Roth, George Penn, Rohrbaugh, Fiscel, a walk to Hartzell, double by Dentler and an infield error.

Four more runs came in the fourth on three walks, a hit batsman and safeties by Pehn and Hartzell.

The scoring ended with three Gettysburg tallies in the sixth on singles by Fiscel and Dentler, walks to George Bender, Lee Hartman and Roth and an error.

The victory gives the locals a 2-2 record. Next Thursday they meet Chambersburg on the Trojans' field in another league game.

Biglerville capitalized on two Squire miscues which contributed heavily to four runs tallied in the fifth inning.

The Canners now have a 4-2 season record. They will be host to East Berlin in a county league game Tuesday. Delone, 1-2, will entertain Hanover at McSherrystown next Tuesday.

Msgr. M. M. Hassett

Expires On Friday

SHAMOKIN, Pa. (P) — Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. M. Hassett D. D., the nation's oldest Roman Catholic domestic prelate from point of service, died yesterday in the rectory of St. Edward's Church, where he served as pastor for the last 35 years.

The 83-year-old native of County Tipperary, Ireland, began his studies at Ottawa University in 1870. He entered Mt. St. Mary's Seminary, Emmitsburg, Md., five years later, and was ordained to the priesthood there on Dec. 21, 1895. Named a domestic prelate in 1909, Msgr. Hassett shortly thereafter was appointed vicar general of the diocese of Harrisburg, Pa.

Fans Mad At Referee For Letting Champ Floor Boy Ten Times In 11 Minutes

BOSTON (P)—Millions in the nation's televised boxing audience seethed with indignation today over the manner in which light-weight champion Jimmy Carter was permitted to dispose of Boston's Tommy Collins, an amazingly courageous and astoundingly rash challenger.

After Carter knocked down Collins 10 times in 11 minutes, 28 seconds to gain a four-round technical knockout victory in their scheduled 15-round bout last night at the Boston Garden, outraged protests were heard almost everywhere television reaches. Only Boston was blacked out in the nation.

The direct target of the public fury was referee Tommy Rawson, a highly competent lightweight battler in his own right about two decades ago and now a successful Cambridge contractor. The two members of the Massachusetts Boxing Commission at ringside also drew sharp criticism from widely spread TV viewers.

"Most Savage Battle" But the victim of the most savage battle ever televised, Collins, himself, supported Rawson's officiating with the very first words he uttered reaching his dressing room.

"Of course I don't think Rawson should have stopped the fight earlier," the gallant Collins said through puffed lips. "It was for the world championship. Why should they have stopped it?"

The consensus of the Rawson critics, one of the most outspoken being president George Barton of the National Boxing Association, an actual eyewitness, was that Rawson erred in permitting Collins to suffer so many knockdowns.

"Worst Officiating" "It was the worst exhibition of boxing officiating I have seen in 30 years," Barton said. "I can't understand why the referee permitted Collins to take such a beating. The bout should have been stopped after he had been knocked down for the third or fourth time in the third round."

"No blow that knocked Collins down was a flush punch. He was knocked down every time by 'feet-out' punches," Rawson explained. "I never felt at any time that Collins was in danger of being hurt. While wiping off his gloves after the first nine knockdowns, I yelled in his ear 'can you continue?' Each time he replied, 'yes, I'm fine.'"

Rawson finally stopped the tragically uneven contest when one of Collins' seconds, "Coogie" McFarland, brother of boxing commissioner Tommy McFarland, rushed into the ring after the challenger toppled for the 10th time.

It is likely that many in the nation-wide television audience would have been amazed if they had been able to view Collins in his dressing room. Less than five minutes after he had been guided from the ring, Collins had showered without assistance and was able to discuss the wrecking of his championship hopes in lucid fashion.

But his face was battered and his left eye almost closed.

The bout's first financial report, subject to revision, assured Collins of his richest purse, 22½ per cent of both the net receipts of $123,577 and the $50,000 television fee. Carter's was 37½ per cent—the champion's customary share—of the combined revenue.

The wave of criticism continued hours after the fight. Words such as "murder," "slaughter," "atrocious," "pitiful," "disgusting," "brutal," and "gruesome" were used freely by TV watchers who swamped newspapers and television stations across the country with telephone calls.

Called "My Duty" Rawson explained he let the bout continue because "it was a championship fight."

"I thought it my duty to have it end in the most possible decisive fashion," said Rawson. "But when Collins' second came into the ring I was counting over him. The Massachusetts Boxing Commission's regulations forced me to stop it."

Massachusetts Boxing Commission Chairman Henry Lamar and Commissioner Tommy McFarland, both capable fighters of years back, declined to comment.

Directors

while economic conditions, which are beyond any one's control, make this a difficult task, the hospital is getting along nicely with county-wide support and there will be no compromise with quality and standards," President Hauser declared.

Executive Director Doud reported that a recent inspection revealed the need for a new cable and governors on the elevator in the old building which work was immediately performed.

He conducted the directors through the engine room of the hospital to indicate the need to correct a heat condition that makes the hospital rooms above the engine room extremely uncomfortable in the spring and fall by reason of the heat absorption of the concrete floor which is also the ceiling of the engine room.

Building Committee Chairman Joseph E. Codori is considering various means of correcting the condition all of which were explained to the directors.

New Director Lloyd W. Kuhn, Bendersville, was presented as a new director. He was elected to fill the unexpired term of Guy M. Stock, also of Bendersville, who recently resigned because of ill health.

President Hauser introduced Mrs. Frank H. Kramer, president of the Women's Auxiliary, who told the directors that her organization would consider operating a snack bar and gift shop at the hospital, for the benefit of the hospital, if the directors will permit them and if suitable space can be found to locate the shop.

Permission was immediately granted and Executive Director Doud and officers of the Auxiliary will confer in regard to a location.

Only $427 of the $1,000 required to furnish free ambulance service for one year has been received from the 40 solicitations made among fraternal orders. A follow-up was ordered to be made before discussing the necessity of withdrawing free ambulance service or appropriating from other funds for this purpose.

Nominating Committee President Hauser appointed a nominating committee consisting of Joseph E. Codori, chairman; Dr. Frank H. Kramer and Franklin R. Bigham to nominate eight directors for three year terms expiring in 1956 and one director for a two year term expiring in 1955. The committee will report at the next meeting of the directors whose terms do not expire who will meet as members of the hospital corporation.

In addition to President Hauser the following directors were in attendance: Lloyd W. Kuhn, Bendersville; Wilbur A. Bankert and William Sneeringer, Littlestown; C. P. Keefer and Richard Livingston, New Oxford; Howard Musselman, Orrtanna; Edgar McDannell, Arendtsville; Richard A. Brown, Edmund W. Thomas, Dr. Frank H. Kramer, Joseph E. Codori, Franklin R. Bigham and Henry M. Scharf, all of Gettysburg.

Fifth Straight Pennant May Be Easiest Of All For Yanks; Beat Senators In Win Streak

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Sports writer

Just how good are the 1953 New York Yankees? Nobody knows yet, but after the first 10 games they appear to be finding the task of winning their fifth straight pennant the easiest of the lot.

Riding a four game winning streak, the Yanks lead the American League by two games. They've won eight and lost just two to the same clubs that beat them in five of the first nine a year ago.

The Yankees of 1952 floundered through the first month and it wasn't until late May that they climbed above the .500 mark to stay. But this season only Alex Kellner, the Philadelphia left-hander, has found their number.

Balance Pays Off Kellner, who became the first three game winner in the majors this season by whipping Boston yesterday, shut out New York on opening day and came back five days later to repeat the whitewashing—something that hadn't happened to a Yankee team since 1934.

Against everybody else the Yanks have made balance pay off—just enough hitting to go with reasonably good pitching to come out on the long end of the scores.

Yesterday's 4-1 victory over Washington was a good example. The fellows the Yanks usually look to for power—Mickey Mantle, Yogi Berra and old John Mize—went hitless. So rookie third baseman Loren Babe and Gene Woodling, chipped in with homers and Eddie Lopat added to the attack with a double, later scoring the tie breaking run in the fifth.

A's Down Boston Lopat scattered eight Senators hits in winning for the second time this season.

The St. Louis Browns, who had been the Yankees nearest rivals, dropped back a game by losing, 3-0, to the Chicago White Sox. Cleveland defeated Detroit, 4-1, and Philadelphia downed Boston, 7-2.

In the National League the Philadelphia Phillies extended their lead to a full game by whipping Pittsburgh, 5-3, on the two-hit pitching of veteran Jim Konstanty. Brooklyn smothered New York, 12-4. St. Louis at Chicago and Cincinnati at Milwaukee were rained out.

Homer For Robinson Boston managed to break Kellner's string of scoreless innings at 21 2/3 when George Kell doubled home Dick Gernert with two out in the fourth but the Arizona southpaw was the master the rest of the way. Eddie Robinson, who came to the A's from the White Sox during the winter, came through with four hits, including a home run.

Konstanty, making his first appearance this year, had a no hitter going for Philadelphia until Danny O'Connell singled with two out in the seventh.

In beating the Giants, the Dodgers scored in bunches—four runs in the fourth and six in the sixth. Roy Campanella's three-run homer was the big blow in the fourth while in the sixth the Dodgers got only three hits but were aided by two errors, a wild pitch and four walks.

Mother "So Very Happy;" She Thought Son Had Been Killed

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
"I am so very happy. I thought he was killed. I had a feeling something had happened to him," a Polish-speaking mother in Pittsburgh exclaimed when informed her son had been returned by the Communists.

Across the state in Philadelphia, another mother cried, "I can't believe it, I can't believe it."
In Coplay, near Allentown, 70-year-old Thomas Paul was awakened by his teenage son who cried, "Frank's safe, Frank's safe!"
"Oh, Danke Gott," the German-speaking father exclaimed.
"That's Wonderful!"

A Shamokin mother excitedly cried, "Oh, I'm so happy—that's wonderful."

In Pittsburgh last night, Mrs. Czeslawa Pawlak couldn't understand when a reporter who told her on the telephone her son, Pfc. William J. Prabuclki had been freed by the Communists.

The Pittsburgh Post-Gazette then called an off-duty printer who spoke Polish and he hurried to the woman's house to break the news. The printer, Frank Borkowski, said the 47-year-old woman was overwhelmed with joy.
Hadden Heard Since '51

Mrs. Pawlak said she hadn't heard from her son since his capture by the Reds, apparently in 1951. She had feared he had been killed in action.

She said excitedly that William's step-father, Stanley Pawlak, would be so happy when he heard the news. He was at work in a steel mill when word of William's release arrived.

The Philadelphia mother, Mrs. Edna B. Coogan, said she couldn't "believe it" when informed that her twice-wounded son had been released by the Communists after more than 18 months in a prison camp.

Neighbors Told Her
Mrs. Coogan heard of the release of her son, Pfc. James J. Coogan, from excited neighbors. Two of them stayed with her until she controlled her emotions sufficiently enough to go to the home of a relative for the night.

Coogan, the oldest of five sons, was wounded in September, 1951. He was serving with the First Cavalry Division's Seventh Regiment. A brother, Michael, is a technical sergeant in the Air Force.

In Coplay, 18-year-old Frederick Paul answered the phone. Seconds later he dropped the receiver and gave free rein to his emotions. "Frank's safe, Frank's safe," he shouted between sobs. Then he awakened his father and told him an older son, Pfc. Frank F. Paul, has been released by the Reds.

The news had been relayed to the family by a reporter for the Allentown Call-Chronicle.

Doesn't Know Mother Died
The father said his only hope now is that the boy is well.

The family agreed that their greatest concern is Frank's reaction when he is informed that his mother died last November. "Mom and Frankie were close buddies," a sister, Mrs. Mary Paul Meleta said.

The 22-year-old soldier was reported missing in action in April, 1951, and in December of that year, the Communists listed him as a prisoner of war.

The last letter from Frank was received last November, three days before his mother's funeral. "I'm fine. Don't worry about me, just write," the letter said.

Trouble Locating Her
Mrs. Bridget Krobath of Shamokin was visiting relatives in Sunbury. In the Philadelphia office of the Associated Press, the name of her son, Pfc. F. William Krobath appeared on a list of returned POWs.

A reporter tried unsuccessfully to reach the woman in Shamokin. Meanwhile, Charles R. Petrie, manager of Radio Station WISL, Shamokin, had asked police and telephone officials to help locate the woman.

Mrs. Krobath was finally located through police efforts and told to phone the AP office in Philadelphia.

Didn't Mention Wounds
"Oh, I'm so happy—that's wonderful," she said when a reporter told her that her son had been released.

She said he was reported missing in 1950 and she learned he was a prisoner of war the following year. Mrs. Krobath said she had received seven letters from her son, the last in October, 1952.

"He did not mention any wounds or anything," in the letters she said, "and in the last one he told me he was okay and that I should not worry about him."

The mother said her fondest wish now is that William can make it home in time to see his brother, Donald, serving in the Air Force, before he leaves for California—and presumably the Far East early next month.

If your baby always tries to get hold of the spoon when you are feeding him, give him a small spoon of his own so he can "help."

NEED CARE IN SELECTION OF FRUIT TREES

By RUSSELL STANTON
Rutgers University

Do you yearn for the day you can go out into the backyard and pick strawberries for supper or enough apples for a pie?

What about growing fruit in the home garden? I put this question up to Ernest G. Christ, fruit specialist at Rutgers and I'm happy to pass along his advice:

First of all, don't be tempted by those juicy, ready-to-eat pictures on the nursery catalogs until you have done careful planning. The varieties shown in the pictures may not fit your condition.

Advice Needed
You can be sure if a variety is adapted to your location by asking your county agricultural agent, a public employee who will give an unbiased answer.

The most important factor to weigh is space. If your lot is small, you may have to limit your fruit to grapes and some of the small fruits or berries, with maybe a few dwarf apple or pear trees. Consider that one standard apple or sweet cherry tree will need 35 to 40 feet when it is mature.

Pollination Important
Then there's the matter of pollination. Apples and pears need to be cross-pollinated for best results, meaning you'll need two varieties unless there are other apple or pear trees nearby. Most peaches do not need cross-pollination, nor do European sorts of plums.

Trees and berry bushes are most successfully transplanted while they are dormant. Between now and fall, when your nursery will be ready to deliver your stock, you can take time to study the situation.

Soil Problem
You'll also have time to improve your fruit garden soil, if it needs improving. Acidity can be prevented by adding lime, and organic matter can be dug in. Good soil is important, fruit men agree, because trees and bushes stay in place a long time.

Meanwhile, though, you can start some strawberry plants. Many gardeners rotate strawberries with vegetables. Plants this spring will bear next year and possibly the following year; then they are removed and the space is planted to vegetables.

Good Start Needed
Any good garden soil will produce strawberries, but it's important to get them off to a good start. This means setting each plant so that the tip of the crown or growing point comes just above the surface of the soil.

If the tip is covered the plant may die, and if the crown is too high out of the ground the lower part may dry out enough to slow down growth or kill the plant. It's important also to make the hole wide enough to spread the roots out.

Spacing Suggestions
To get fruit of the highest quality, set the plants 15 inches apart in rows 2 feet apart, Christ advises, and then remove runners as they form. Another method is to set the plants 2 feet apart with the rows 3½ to 4 feet apart. Some runner plants are permitted to remain in the row.

STATE COLLECTS MOST OF TAXES

HARRISBURG, (AP)—William S. Livengood Jr., state secretary of internal affairs, said Friday that Pennsylvania municipalities collected $430,010,388 of the $443,469,580 in taxes they levied in 1951.

School districts levied $217,668,929 in taxes and collected $209,962,776; cities, $102,820,009 and $103,145,650; counties, $58,962,354 and $56,211,251; boroughs, $29,146,276 and $27,740,966; townships, $21,399,929 and $20,227,208; and institutional districts $13,472,156 and $12,722,537.

Taxes were based on assessments that totaled $10,920,762,300 or school districts, $9,699,370,587 for counties; $5,879,937,282 for cities; $2,064,578,413 for boroughs; and $2,387,277,372 for townships.

Taxpayers received $7,232,892 in discounts for paying taxes before the due date. Another $58,864,836 was paid without discount or penalty while $13,420,268 in delinquent taxes was collected with penalties amounting to $494,106.

Germans Will Form New Brazil Colony

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Brazil's land and colonization service has signed an agreement with the World Council of Churches for settlement of 30 German families in the state of Rio de Janeiro.

The immigrants will serve as the nucleus for an expected colony at Papucaia. Their passage will be paid by the Council, which also will give them help the first year, including the construction of homes.

Tribute To Mothers On May 10 Began On Mount Olympus

Mom may not know it, but the gifts and Mother's Day greeting cards that she'll receive on Sunday, May 10, are final links in a chain of tradition and sentiment which was forged under the shadows of legendary Mt. Olympus.

For in their annual Springtime festival honoring Rhea, the "Mother of the Gods," the ancient Greeks were actually holding the first Mother's Day ceremony of any kind!

Centuries later the early Christians dedicated the fourth Sunday before Easter to the Mother of Jesus. Pilgrims visited Mary's shrine, and brought flowers in her name to the church altar where they'd been baptized. Living mothers were remembered with gifts, too, making this Midlent Sunday the first step toward Mother's Day as we know it.

White House Tree

Tributes to motherhood, of course, have taken many forms.

Shah Jehan of India built the Taj Mahal, the world's most beautiful building, as a monument to his favorite wife for the sons she gave him. During the Renaissance, the Madonna or the Madonna and Child inspired scores of famous paintings by Raphael, Botticelli and other classical artists.

Here in the United States, there's a beautiful birch tree on the White House lawn dedicated to the mothers of our presidents. Another has been planted near the Capitol Building as a tribute to all American mothers.

Had Difficult Time

Mother's Day in America, however, was established only after several unsuccessful attempts. Back in Civil War days, Julia Ward Howe, composer of "Battle Hymn of the Republic," proposed that Independence Day be recognized as Mother's Day, thus making it a day of peace.

Mrs. Howe's suggestion never caught on. But a "Mother's Friendship Day" did originate in West Virginia, and for several years it helped to reunite the families of Union and Confederate soldiers.

The Mother's Day that we celebrate each year began at Henderson, Kentucky, in 1887. For it was there that Mary Towles Sasseen, a school teacher, invited the mothers of her pupils to attend a special musical program in their honor.

Miss Sasseen made this popular ceremony an annual event, and devoted her life to establishing Mother's Day programs in other nearby schools and states. She died in 1906, just two years before Anna Jarvis of Philadelphia organized a similar and more successful campaign.

Miss Jarvis was a fluent, logical and convincing woman. Her countless lectures and letters were rewarded in 1914, when President Wilson signed a Congressional Resolution setting aside the second Sunday in May as Mother's Day.

Flag Is Displayed

As the nation's first official tribute to motherhood, all federal buildings were ordered to display the American flag. Rep. Hefflin of Alabama, co-author of the Mother's Day resolution, later said: "The flag was never used in a more beautiful and sacred cause than when flying above that tender, gentle Army, the mothers of America."

In the 39 years since then, Mother's Day has become our most sentimental holiday. Unlike the Greeks of old, we think of every mother as a goddess. And to sing their praises, our Mother's Day cards are mailed "With all my love" to mothers, grandmothers, godmothers, mothers-in-law and even mothers-to-be!

MAN CONVICTED OF KILLING WIFE

BELVIDERE, N. J. (AP)—Arthur J. Huff Jr., 38, was found guilty of first degree murder Friday by a Warren County jury which recommended life imprisonment in the death of his wife.

The jury returned its verdict to Superior Court Judge Joseph L. Smith after deliberating nearly nine hours. No date was set for sentencing.

Huff's attorney told the court that the verdict will be appealed.

Huff was charged with killing his wife, Ruth, 33, at their home in Phillipsburg on Jan. 25. Her body was found on March 18 buried under a coal pile in the Huff home.

Pushed Her Down Stairs

The defendant contended during the trial that his wife was killed in an accidental fall during a quarrel. The state charged that Huff pushed her down a flight of stairs.

4 Ships Brave Heavy Fire To Save Wounded

SEOUL (AP)—Four U. S. warships steamed through a bombardment from Communist shore batteries Friday in a bold operation to rescue wounded men from an Allied-held island at the entrance to Wonsan harbor.

There was no report whether the ships were hit or whether the mission was successful, but the Navy said the ships and support-

Huff's disappearance led police to the Huff home. Police spotted the coal pile in the cellar. Huff told them there was a cement floor underneath.

However, when police found earth under the coal pile, they started digging and found Mrs. Huff's body.

ing Navy Pantherjets silenced the Red guns.

The ships were the light cruiser Manchester and destroyers Owen, Henderson and Epperson.

In the air, Capt. Joseph McConnell, a Sabre jet pilot from Apple Valley, Calif., was credited with downing his 10th Red MIG to become the Allies' fifth double jet ace. He also damaged another.

Small-Scale Fights

Another MIG was damaged by 2nd Lt. Douglas A. Lockwood Jr., of Winter Haven, Fla., the Air Force said.

Along the 155-mile front, Allied foot soldiers and Red troops tangled in bitter, small-scale fights.

The Eighth Army said 14 Red probes, the highest number in a month, hit Allied positions. Sixteen U. N. patrols reported skirmishes.

The Eighth Army said Red casualties inflicted by Allied ground troops in the week ended Tuesday totaled 3,534 including 1,780 killed. Most were credited to the U. S. 8th Division.

PWs Used Corpses To Spell Out SOS In Vain; Reds Left Injured To Die; 200 Starved

FREEDOM VILLAGE (P)—One thousand American soldiers cut off from their lines... 700 of them wounded... all so desperate that they spelled out a giant SOS with corpses of their fallen comrades... eventual death for 900.

That new story of horror in the early days of the Korean War—in November, 1950—was related Friday by Pvt. William J. Prabucki, 21, Pittsburgh. He just had been returned by the Communists after 29 months in their prison camps.

The 1,000 were stranded after a "horrible" battle in which there were nearly 75 per cent casualties.

"We were desperate... so desperate that we even spelled out messages with bodies in the snow," Prabucki said in a brief interview which didn't allow time for many details.

Prabucki said one plane sighted the SOS in corpses and he understood helicopters were being sent to pick up the wounded.

But help never came.

"Instead, a message came through to take off in groups of five. Most of us didn't want to leave the wounded so somebody—I don't know who—arranged to surrender."

Under the surrender agreement, "the wounded were supposed to be released. But they were not."

"I'd say few—no more than a dozen out of the 700—lived."

The Communists left some of the 700 wounded behind, but lined up more than 1,000 men and ordered them to march north.

For 28 days they struggled over North Korean roads, arriving about Christmas at a prison camp the captives labeled Death Valley, Prabucki said.

In the next few weeks "over 200 men died of starvation."

Prabucki, an artilleryman in the Second Infantry Division when captured, was exchanged by the Reds because of a bone ailment.

The surrender climaxed a bloody battle in which artillery was firing at point blank range.

TAFT TO PUSH BILL TO EXTEND RENT CONTROL

WASHINGTON (P)—Senate Republican Leader Taft said Friday he would see about getting a bill to extend federal rent control through the Senate without interrupting the prolonged debate over submerged oil lands.

The rent issue is squarely up to the Senate now. The House voted 187 to 66 Thursday for a bill to continue the ceilings for three months in cities which now have them and for a year in critical defense areas. Both types are due to expire April 30, unless extended.

The general controls which would be extended for three months in the House bill apply to about 4,300,000 rental units in 1,400 cities. The critical area controls apply to another 1,300,000 units.

Little Protection
Democrats argued in the House debate that the critical area provision would afford a little protection. The bill would provide a much tighter definition of a critical area. Effective Aug. 1, a city could qualify only if its housing shortage was caused by a government installation. The present definition includes a housing shortage caused by a private defense plant. Another provision states that the critical area lids could not apply to any units built after Feb. 1, 1947.

Sponsors of the measure concede the two sections would eliminate half of the present critical area ceilings after three months.

Riding with Russell

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.
by FREDERICK C. RUSSELL
member S.A.E.

Cloverleaf intersections are just further proof that too many drivers are still going around in circles.

Higher Education Ahead
One of the encouraging signs in the flight against highway accidents is the discovery that a relatively small percentage of drivers ever have gone further than first or second grade in the school of motoring education. Easy evidence of this is to watch the average driver when he has stalled the engine. Note how long it takes him to get going again. Often the driver doesn't even know that the engine has stalled, even though there are such gauges as the ammeter and the oil pressure indicator to tell him, if he happens to have poor hearing.

Sometimes just one new feature of car control will so disturb a driver as to confuse him or cause him to act like an amateur. If you have any question about your own skill just take the wheel of a car with which you are not entirely familiar. You may be like myself. I had to ask the owner of a new car the other day where they had hidden the starter button, having forgotten that his job is an ignition key starting proposition. The engine cranks when the key is turned a little more to the right than usual, and only when the automatic transmission selector lever is in the neutral or parking positions.

Driving should be a continuous effort toward improvement. Failure to consider this explains why so many drivers have been trapped into trouble.

Brings On A Short
Sometimes those mysterious vagaries of motor behavior can be traced to metal parts coming too close to the tops of the spark plugs or to the high tension wires. This is quite likely to be the case where plugs are enclosed within a cover plate to shield them from the elements. The fussy owner is apt to draw the hold-down nuts too tightly with the result that the cover plate buckles a bit, and just enough to cause a short.

One tip-off that the automatic choke is working more than necessary is dilution of the crankcase oil. An over-rich mixture always shows up as diluent.

A too low carburetor float level may affect the choke at those times when the engine is cold and the car is being put into immediate service. Here a maximum amount of fuel is being used, and if the level is low the choke may be as effective.

Contrary to popular belief that choke can be checked whether the engine is hot or cold, but there are some advantages in looking the situation over when the motor is cold.

Mechanic Joe Speaking:
"Something few motorists consider is the fact that motor compression may change when the car is driven uphill. If the valves have sufficient clearance the chances are that compression will increase as the engine heats up and the rings expand. Thus it is not unusual that an engine will start the upgrade with no complaint yet ping hard toward the top. The driver is usually fooled into thinking."

Cleaning That Filter
Do you still have an old grease gun, preferably one that was used for squirting oil over springs in the old days when we thought that was an advantage?

If so, you are right up to the minute with equipment and may be able to use the gun for sucking sludge from the shell of the oil filter whenever you are replacing the cartridge. Shops now use such a gun for proper removal of sludge, and it's a lot easier than opening a drain in the bottom of the shell or using rags to wipe out the mess.

Opportunity Is Knocking
To the car owner who keeps his property in good condition most of the time the annual season when others are giving careful thought to overhauling should not necessarily be an invitation to ease. Rather the season offers an opportunity to have something extra done by way of service. Perhaps there has always been some oddity in the car's behavior which might be remedied by installing a new carburetor or improved ignition. I recall one Springtime when I set out to locate an annoying snapping noise in the car's front end. We spent about as much time on this as would have been required for a valve grinding, but we found the cause in a loose rivet in the frame.

In The Motor Mail
Q. What would cause an unsteady generator charging rate? I have checked for a slipping belt. The commutator isn't dirty and there is no high mica between commutator segments. J. L. Jr.

A. This may turn out to be a case of a weak armature.
Q. No amount of tuning seems to improve the performance of my car. The engine is definitely sluggish, and there are no draggy brakes, clutch slippage, clogged exhaust or soggy tires. Compression is normal for this model. K. R. U.

A. Check for a worn timing chain.
Q. What is a "ridge reamer" and when should it be used? J. H.

A. This is a cutting tool for use in removing the ridge which develops around each cylinder at a point where the pistons stop in their upward travel. When doing a motor overhaul, or even replacing rings, the ridges should be removed.

Q. There's a humming noise in my car which we have located in the rear end, but changes in adjustment of the ring and pinion gears do not make any difference. It doesn't sound like bearing trouble.

A. Better check into this more carefully. You may find a cracked differential carrier assembly.
Q. There's a lot of wandering in the steering of my car. Does this indicate that there's incorrect camber and caster and need for a complete front-end check-up? H. G.

A. This probably is necessary, but first check the steering gear itself. Often this is found to have too much backlash.
Q. What is the cause of a rattling noise when the car is in second gear? This has been going on for quite a while and doesn't seem to be any worse than it was when I first noticed it. E. G.

A. This has all the earmarks of gears being loose on their splines.
Q. There's a rattling noise in the engine of my car and can't seem to put my finger on it. Get it at idling speed mainly. It is quite sharp, but just comes and goes. I have been told that this may indicate a loose flywheel. What do you think? J. N. D.

A. This isn't the symptom of a loose flywheel. You check for this by switching off the engine and then switching it on again, at which time you'll get a sharp knock. The noise you mention sounds more like end-play in the crankshaft. You can detect this best by engaging and disengaging the clutch while the motor runs.

Q. I have been getting what friends tell me is an indication of vapor lock. Every so often the engine just doesn't get enough gas. However, I'm puzzled because the engine runs cool. D. McB.

A. This probably isn't vapor lock. Have you checked the glass bowl of the fuel filter which may be loose allowing air to be sucked to the fuel pump? Check also for air leakage in the flexible tube between the gas line and the pump.

Mr. Russell will answer questions regarding the safe care and operation of your car. Just address him at 254 Fern St., West Hartford 7, Conn., and enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope for a personal reply. Please confine inquiries to one subject and limit letter to 100 words or less.

Pointed Arrest Made By Private Citizen
STERLING, ILL. (P)—A Sterling citizen, in exercising his right to arrest a wrong-doer, so frightened the offender that the latter fled, leaving his automobile behind.

The Sterling man, driving his pickup truck, was almost struck by an out-of-town motorist who ignored a stop sign. Both vehicles stopped. The truck driver confronted the motorist with, "You're under arrest." To back up his statement the truck driver pulled a knife. The offender leaped from his car and fled.

The Sterling driver took the keys from the other auto and lodged a complaint with police. When the out-of-town offender inquired of police about his car the complaint was served. He paid a fine for failure to yield the right-of-way.

HAVE NEW PLAN TO AID SCHOOLS

NEW YORK (P)—Bethlehem Steel Co. has added something new to methods of contributing funds to privately-endowed colleges and Universities.

Eugene G. Grace, chairman of the company, says Bethlehem is offering financial assistance to approximately 45 institutions in proportion to the number of their men selected by the company for its annual training program for college graduates. The amount of the payment for each graduate has been set at $3,000. The plan starts this year.

For "Value Received"
"The novel feature of the plan," Grace states, "is that it provides for financial assistance to the selected colleges on the principle of value received."

"If our industrial progress is to continue, more and more educated men are going to be needed, and it is important that the colleges be in a position to supply them."

The colleges may use these payments for whatever purposes they see fit. In turn, the company is trying to insure a steady flow of trainees for its "loop course," from which managerial positions are filled.

Ike To Consider St. Lawrence Seaway

WASHINGTON (P)—President Eisenhower said Friday he plans to discuss with his cabinet the extent to which the United States should participate in construction of the St. Lawrence Seaway project.

Eisenhower made the statement in a letter to Sen. Wiley (R-Wis.), chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

The President wrote that the National Security Council has advised him that "early initiation and completion of the St. Lawrence Seaway is in the interest of national security."

SAYS TOURIST BUSINESS WILL TOP THAT OF '52

HARRISBURG (AP) — The State Commerce Department predicted Friday that Pennsylvania's multi-million dollar tourist and vacation business will be greater this year than it was last.

"Of course," he said, "the possibility of bad weather makes it pretty hard to predict, but reservations made in resort areas are about 15 per cent better than last year."

A recent survey indicates that many resorts are making extensive improvements in their facilities.

"They are doing a lot of repairing and redecorating and also expanding their property and facilities," the official said.

He also pointed out that in recent years the tourist and vacation business has been spreading out from resort areas to other parts of the state not particularly noted as vacationlands.

"For example, a lot of farmers are renting rooms to hunters and fishermen in different sections of the state," he said. "That $100 or so that the farmer gets would mean nothing in a resort area but to the farmer it means quite a bit."

However, he added, the main attractions to tourists are still the resort areas and historical sites.

During colonial times a ship load of iron pyrites, a comparatively worthless mineral, was shipped to England from the United States in the belief that it was gold.
